It is upon these unfortunate men that the means of decoying can be alone exerted with effect, and there seems but little doubt that it is to the fact that in one form or another the men are slaves that we can alone attribute their con- work, and be made answer be would times to the emigration officers that they are ed him to get up ashes, the defendant sat furniture, and innumerable other things we are ed, but the real condition of its people is poor willing to emigrate, when in truth they are not so. It is surprising that more accidents do not occur in this way, seeing that the parapet is in some places only a few inches high, and that in the most exposed parts there is scarcely any protection. The attention of the new Survey r-General ought to be specially called to this matter. There are also many dangerous parts of the roads in the Colony which-could be protected at a trifling expense.

Lewis' Dramatic Company gave their second performance at the City Hall last evening. The house was, we regret to say, not as well filled as it should have been in view of the really meritorious entertainment afforded. The comedictia of " My Wife's Daughter," and the burlesque of "The Little Don Giovanni" composed the programme. The character of Mrs. Ormonde in the first piece afforded a fine scope for Mrs. Lewis's exquisite dramatic abilities, and met with hearty and repeated bursts of applause from the audience. Mrs. Bryer, as the young, wife of the antiquated " Joylenf," proved herself a complete mistress of the situation. The other characters were well up to the mark, and "Gillyflower's" Latin quo ations would have done credit to a Legislative Conneillor. The burlesque went off, as pieces of that nature generally do, with comic dances, songs, bad nuns, and roars of laughter. The performance is a whole seemed to give entire satisfaction.

EMPEROR WILLIAM TO VISIT THE CZAR ON THE 25TH INSTANT. BERLIN, April 9th. · Emperor Frederick William, Prince von Bismarck and Count you Molke will leave this city A GOOD BEQUEST. (Public Opinion.)

A Literary and Scientific Institution, which has existed at Barnstaple for over thirty years, is peculiarly favoured. One of it earliest supporters was Mr. W. F. Rock, of Blackheathwho, for many years, has given £100 per annum for the free admission of 100 members, such members being thereby entitled to all the advantages the institution can offer-bas just retired from the presidency in consequence of advanced age, and is succeeded by Earl Fortescue, whose father was the first president. On his retirement, Mr. Rock signified to the council of the institution that, as he could not expect to live much longer, he had made arrangements, presumably by will, for the payment of £100 a year to the institution for ever, as heretofore, in order that the young men of Barnstaple, of whose town he is a native, may still enjoy the advantages to be reaped for a free connection with an institution of this class.

> A BRAVE POLICEMAN. (New York Times, March 29th.)

On Thursday afternoon a bullock, supposed to have jumped overboard from a cattle-boat, was discovered in the water opposite Pier No. 37. East River, and was taken out and brought to the Seventh Precinct Station by an officer and four bostmen. While being removed to a stable, the animal became inturiated, and broke away from his captors, passing Public School No. 31, in Monroe street, just as the children were being dismissed and were coming out of the building. One boy was caught on the animal's borns and thrown up in the air, and in his descent was caught by a citizen and escaped uninjured. Several other children were knocked down and trampled upon, without, however, receiving any serious injuries. Amid this scene of excitement Officer Gibson appeared, and literally, took the bull by the horns and held him until he was killed by a citizen who had come to the officer's aid. While in this dangerous position the officer was repeatedly raised from the ground and shaken from-side to side in the desperate efforts of the muddened animal to release himself from the policeman's grasp, but the latter maintained his hold at great personal danger until the bull fell dead on the payment. By his gallant conduct the lives of many of the children were doubtless saved Capt. Mount reported the occurrence to the Board of Police Commissioners, and they adopted a resolution making honorable mention in the records of the Department of Patrolman Gibson, and as a reward for his gallant conduct promoted him to the rank of rounds-

A NEW BRUNSWICK HORROR A WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN CHOPPED TO

(From a Victoria, New Brunswick, Letter.) Pierre Lefebre, a Frenchman, who was last Spring arrested, but through some informality in the indictment was acquitted, on the charge of murder in the second degree against his youngest son, a bright-eyed fellow of seven years, has again convulsed the entire community with horror, and this time he has been auccessful. Pierre Lefebre, three years ago, was a well-to-do farmer, the owner of a fine and well cultivated tract of land, a good house, some live stock, and considerable other property. His pany, are propared to grant Marine risks at wife was the eldest daughter of Jucques Leblane, of Montreal, and both in social position and education was much the superior of her husband. She was gifted with a fine poetic mind, and many of her better productions found their way into L'Ordre and La Minerve, newspapers of her natal city. Pierre possesses a violent, excitable temper, and when influenced with drink and anger, cannot restrain his passions or stay his terrible paroxysms of rage. In his soher moments he has a kind, generous disposition, thoughtful in the extreme, and loving his wife and children with a love almost amounting to worship. He has been married about fifteen years, and has an interesting family-two boys, Paul and Emile, and one girl, Amy, aged live years. is only three years since that Pierre Lefebre commenced drinking to excess, and in that short time he was twice attempted the lives of his wife and children. His stock has almost dwindled down to nothing, his house and farm are heavily mortgaged, and desolation and want now occupy the place where contentment and luxury reigned but a few short years ago. One Monday he came home very much intoxicated.

The room was cold and dark. No fire blazed on the hearth. His wife slept. Emile and Amy lay on the floor looked in one another's arms, and the eldest son. Paul Lefebre, sat alone at the foot of the bed in seeming unconscious slumber. The moon stole in as it pass. ed a cloud, and the husband comprehended in drunken stuper the abject scene as it present- kow, and are prepared to grant Insurances at ed itself in the moonlight for a moment. The fiends of hell seemed to have rushed into his brain in an instant. With a savage yell be seized an ake, brandishing it aloft in the air, and in one swoop down it came on the poor head of Marie, his wife, crushing into her head, cleaving her skull in twain. A low mean followed, then all was still, the room was again dark, the moon hid behind a cloud, and a spirit sped toward its God. Maddened by blood, the nwoke-just in time to ward off a terrible blow from the descending weapon. But though the arm was for a time weakened, the work of death was not stayed. The buy fell with a gasp, bleeding to the earth. Emile and Amy stured the same fate, and then the incarnate fiend left the bloody scene of his heartless triumph over a sick woman and two defenceless children. The morning dawning found the bloody corpses aweltering in pools of blood. The neighbours, as usual, came in to offer their services to Madame Lefebre, or to bring in some delicacy for the neglected sufferer, and this was the horror that awaited them. The blood froze in their veins as the spectacle presented itself, and the heart sickened at the awful sight. Amy, who alone had escaped the savage butchery of her father, in tiny lips told the heartreading story of the murder, and her little sobs sent many a pang into the hearts of the horrified listeners. It was painful-to surances, viz:hear the child testify against her father. Yesterday the murdered were interred, and though strict search has been made, no clue bus yet been found of the murderer. Suspicion alone points to the husband. He was seen to go into his own house on the fatal night of the murder, and since that time has not been heard of. A reward

WONDERFUL Pic STORY .- The Chicago Live Stock Reporter estimates the weight and products in figures of the cattle and swine trade at that place, and says that since the Union Stock Yurds were opened on Christmas, 1865; over 3.000,000 tons of live stock have been received, including 3,000,000 head of cattle, 12,000,000 hogs, and nearly 2,000,000 sheep. These would all fill over 400,000 closely-packed cars, reaching over 2,400 miles, and requiring over 113 miles of locomotives to move them. If the hugs were converted into sausages, they would make a string long enough to encircle the earth 14 times; and the man in the moon, could be convert sausages into telegraph wires, might at once open communication with the earth, and have 98,000 miles to spare for branch lines at IMPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WLTH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. TIOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and To H. I. H. THE GRAND DUKE ALEXIS or after the arrival of the next English Mail. in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Uniness and English type correspond [in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not COUGHS, ASTHMA, and all affections of the Throat, previously attained, and dispensing with those they are the most a recable and efficacious remedy. They To illustrate the vest scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Obinese obaracters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-THE annual rates for Fire Insurance on the cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few in-deed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. It comprises upwards of two thousand large

"NO SHIRKING." I am speaking now of a period more than half a century past. In those days Scotland would have been a rich field for Father Mathew's labours. Habits of drunkenness were common alike to rich and poor. They were associated with good-fellowship, and were tenderly dealt with, even by the Church. The orgies of Osbaldistone Hall, graphically described in Rob Roy, found their counterpart in many a Scottish manor. The old bacchanalian rhyme,

.. He who goes to bed, goes to bed sober, Fulls us the leaves do, and dies in October But he that goes to bed, goes to bed mellow,

Lives along, jolly life, and dies an honest fellow, was quoted, half in carnest, as apology for the excesses which wealthy and respectable hosts, under the guise of hospitality, literally forced upon their guests, when the cloth-was drawn and the ladies had abandoned the dinner-table to their riotous lords and masters. I have heard my father, more than once, relate what happened on such an occasion, when he was one of the actors. He had been dining with a party of eight or ton. gentlemen and a few ladies, at the luxurious country-seat of a friend who had shown him much kindness. When the ladies withdrew. proaching a front window which opened on good, "that which all things aim at;" the lawn, only a few feet below it, threw up other words, that which all things lack. four other guests. This enraged their host. As the fugitives looked back they saw him upset the dinner-table with a violent kick, drink that wine nobody else should. The deserters joined the ladies in the drawingroom, but the host did not reappear; and my father, as leading conspirator, lost, and never regained, his friendship .- Atlantic Monthly.

NEW ZEALAND MAID-SERVANTS. The one great complaint made by the ladies who occupy these houses—the one sorrow, indeed, of the matrons of New Zealand - arises from the dearth of maid-servants.
